10. Training and Assessment

Vocational Education and Training

Vocational Education and Training (VET) are course that are provided by Registered Training Organisations (RTO) that focus on developing the workplace-specific skills and knowledge required to gain employment for a specific vocation (area of work).

Boston College offers a range of exceptional VET courses in Automotive and Leadership and Management ranging from Certificate III level to Advanced Diploma level and is responsible for the quality of training and assessment and for the issuance of the AQF (Australian Qualifications Framework) certification.

The nationally recognised training has been assessed as meeting the Australian Government standards stipulated in the relevant training packages and in the Australian Qualifications Framework (AQF).

Training Delivery Methods and Learning Resources

Boston College provides training face-to-face in classrooms, placements in workplaces or in the Commercial Workshop Training Facility to facilitate the completion of the automotive work placement component for the automotive courses, allowing students to have direct contact with their trainers and to ask for additional support if required throughout their course. There is a library equipped to address the academic needs of students and space for the students to study individually and collaboratively. Support is available from trainers (including referrals) to address any challenges, language, literacy and numeracy barriers impacting on the students' academic progress, or to support the student to address any needs that would result in reasonable adjustments to the way the student will be assessed.

All Courses Include:

Structured Face to Face Learning and Assessment

As per the visa requirements for international students, classroom training and assessment is structured for a weekly timetable that accounts for a minimum of 20 scheduled course contact hours per week. The 20 course contact hours per week include all training delivery and assessment, engagement in group activities, class discussions, participation in simulated activities, role plays, projects, observations, attending guest lectures, as well as the completion of assessments and work tasks.

Self-Study

Unsupervised learning and assessment activities are not included in the 20 hours of course contact: they are additional hours required for the successful completion of the course. The unsupervised learning and assessment hours required to be undertaken by students each week will be approximately four to seven hours per week outside of the classroom. These four to seven hours per week may include online research/forums, workshop activities, required reading and follow up activities, as well as completing documentation for the completion of work placement components which includes but is not limited to logbooks and portfolios.

Work Placements/ Field Placements

Students may need to complete work placements as part of their course to achieve their qualifications, for example in the Certificate III and Certificate IV level automotive qualifications. Work placements are the opportunity to apply the theory that has been learnt into practice and will contribute to providing the student with the opportunity to demonstrate and develop the skills necessary for employment in the industry.

Field Trips and Excursions

Boston College may provide students with the opportunity to participate in activities such as excursions and field trips to learn about the industry connected to the field of study.

These excursions and field trips provide insight into the course being studied and provide the student the opportunity to develop invaluable industry contacts and may be considered a part of the self-study component of the student course requirements.

Learning Resources

Boston College has committed to providing students with hard copies of the learner guides and assessments, allowing for ease of revision and flexibility. For information regarding the study timetables and intakes for each qualification, please refer to the Boston College website.

Timetables

Boston College plans course and class timetables to meet the course's educational and visa requirements for predominantly international students, which will span 20 course contact hours. The units offered in the timetable may change the planned days or the unit provided for the student's timetable, due to trainer or venue availability, class sizes and other variables. Boston College will always ensure that there is sufficient support and minimal disruption to students resulting from these timetable changes.

Subject Deferrals

Boston College reserves the right to defer a subject to a later study period/session. Where a subject is deferred, it will be offered in the next logical training sequence. Students will be informed via email regarding their individual timetables by the Administration Officer.

Vocational Education and Training (VET) Assessments

Assessments in the VET sector are competency-based, meaning that a student must provide evidence that they can adequately demonstrate the required standard of practical skills and theoretical knowledge requirements for each unit, which is based on industry requirements. These national requirements are defined in the training package of a VET accredited course.

Assessment Methods

All of the nationally recognised courses offered by Boston College involve several assessment methods, which may include: the practical observation of tasks; assignments / case studies; oral or written questions; role plays; projects; logbooks; reports; presentations and work-based assessments.

Assessment Participation

Participation in assessment activities is a mandatory process for demonstrating competence in all the units and demonstrating course progression for visa requirements. The assessor will inform students how and when these assessments will occur and support the student to develop the knowledge and skills required for the assessments.

Submission of Assessment Evidence

All completed assessments must be submitted directly to the Trainer and Assessor by the due date. If a student cannot complete an assessment on or by the due date, it is mandatory to inform the Trainer and Assessor with as much time as possible to negotiate a time to reschedule the assessment and reduce the risk of a Not Yet Satisfactory result, additional fees or having to repeat the unit. Late submissions of assessments will not be accepted unless prior arrangements for assessment extensions were made with the Trainer and Assessor.

Reasonable Adjustment to Assessments

Reasonable adjustments to assessments may potentially relate to factors that may affect a student's ability to complete all or part of the assessment. This includes a temporary or permanent disability, Cultural or religious beliefs and other unforeseen circumstances. The Trainer and Assessor should be contacted for full details on Reasonable Adjustments.

When reasonable adjustments need to occur, the Boston College Trainer and Assessor will document the need for the adjustment. The adjustment will be based on the submission of compelling evidence by the student and will adjust the assessment methods to suit these needs.

Assessment Resubmissions

Boston College students have full access to supportive Trainers and Assessors, so if a student has concerns about their capacity to successfully complete an assessment, it is recommended for the student to approach their Trainer and Assessor to reduce the risk of needing to resubmit. When a student is at risk of being assessed as "Not Yet Satisfactory" (NYS), the student would be encouraged to approach the Trainer and Assessor for support and an Intervention Strategy will be developed in consultation with the student to address their needs.

If a student has received a 'Not Yet Satisfactory' (NYS) result due to insufficient evidence to demonstrate competency for the unit being assessed, the students may be allowed to resubmit the evidence based on the reason of the NYS result. Students will only be allowed a maximum of two resubmission attempts at no charge. If the result of the resubmission is still NYS, the student will have to re-enrol and pay the required fee per unit of competency as well as extend their course duration. If the unit is a pre-requisite to another unit, the following unit will also have to be delayed, possibly affecting the student's course timetable and visa.

Should you be required to resubmit or re-attempt the assessment activities, your Trainer and Assessor will give you a resubmission due date or a re-attempt due date, which will generally be within seven days.

If the NYS result for the unit is due to cheating, plagiarism or collusion, only one resubmission in the entirety of the course is allowed. For subsequent cheating, plagiarism or collusion submission consequences, please see the information in the student handbook under that heading.

Assessment Extensions

Boston College Trainers and Assessors may grant extensions for assessment due dates following a direct, written request from the student. If granted, the extension will be for an agreed amount of time.

Please note the granting an assessment extension does not affect the requirement for the student meet sufficient course progress requirements.

Assessment Results

Boston College Trainers and Assessors will ensure assessment results are made available to students within the required timeframes set by the Australian Skills Quality Authority (ASQA), the regulating body for Vocational Education and Training (VET) which will usually be within two weeks/ 10 working days after the submission of an assessment. Assessors will provide feedback and results to students with written feedback on any submitted written assessments and possibly in a face-to-face meeting.

If students disagree with their assessment results, they can lodge an internal appeal within 20 working days of receiving the result.

An intervention strategy will be implemented for any student deemed at risk of not progressing satisfactorily in their courses.

Qualifications or Statement of Attainment

Boston College can only issue Certificates of Qualifications to students who have been assessed Competent in all the core and elective units of competence specified in the Training and Assessment strategy as per the guidelines for each course. Students who have not been assessed as competent in all the core and elective units will receive a Statement of Attainment listing all of the units in which they have been assessed competent.

The issuance of a Certificate of a Qualification or Statement of Attainment will be completed by Boston College staff:

- Following the payment of all outstanding course fees, which are the responsibility of the student, should be completed upon the submission of the final assessment for the course
- Student's Certificates and Statements of Attainment will not be issued to any other person than the student, unless the student has provided a written a formal statement consenting to this
- The Certificate or Statement of Attainment may take up to 30 days following course completion, once all fees have been paid and the student's course progress checked. Boston College will inform students when Certificates or Statements of Attainment can be collected.

Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL)

Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) refers to relevant prior learning experience which demonstrates that students already have the knowledge and competencies of the unit/course.

Applying for Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL)

New students eligible to apply for RPL should provide the supporting documentation and indicate this on their initial application form to the Admissions Officer.

Credit Transfer

Credit Transfer gives recognition to the current Qualifications and Statements of Attainment for successfully completed units issued by other registered training organisations accredited under the Australian Qualifications Framework. The completed unit codes must directly match the codes for the course being applied for at the time of the request of credit transfer.

If a Credit Transfer is granted or a successful completion of the RPL process occurs, this may result in a change in the course duration. This could also impact changes in timetable and study loads for each study period, impacting on visas.

Students may be required to attend classes for units assessed as being eligible for credit transfer if the college is delivering multiple units together as a part of the cluster.

Applying for Credit Transfers

Students eligible to apply for a Credit Transfer should provide evidence of a valid AQF certification or Statement of Attainment from a Nationally Registered Training provider and indicate this on their initial application form.

International Students

Full-time enrolment in a course, attendance and successful progression is a visa requirement. Full-time study for Vocational Education and Training (VET) courses is defined in the National Code of Practice for Providers of Education and Training to Overseas Students 2018 (National Code 2018) as 20 scheduled course contact hours per week.

If a student is granted a course credit by Boston College before the Student Visa is granted, it will be indicated on the Confirmation of Enrolment with Boston College Letter. If Recognised Prior Learning (RPL) or Credit Transfer is granted by Boston College after the Student Visa is approved, the student will receive a report indicating any reduction of the course duration. Boston College will also adjust your course duration on PRISMS, as the college must report any change of course duration to The Department of Home Affairs (DHA). This may affect your visa.

Plagiarism, Collusion and Cheating

Plagiarism and cheating means copying and presenting someone else's work as one's own, including without referencing and can include copying another person's exact answers to an assessment, submitting work written by someone else, copying information from a website without paraphrasing or referencing the source of the information.

Collusion means that two or more students have worked together on an assessment task that was required to be an individual's work.

Plagiarism, collusion, and cheating constitutes a serious breach of the Student Code of Conduct at Boston College.

Breaching these elements of the Student Code of Conduct may result in the following:

For the first incident of plagiarism, collusion and cheating, the Assessor will mark the assessment result to be "Not Yet Satisfactory" and the student will be provided with one attempt to resubmit and will be required to re-work and resubmit the assessment. This may result in additional fees. Students will be granted one attempt to resubmit, and any additional fees will be applied in accordance with the Boston College Fees and Refunds Policy.

For the second breach of the Student Code of Conduct, the student will be required to re-enrol in the unit. This will be the consequence for any second incident of plagiarism, collusion or cheating, whether it is the second incident for a unit or for the course overall.

For the third breach of the Student Code of Conduct and incident of plagiarism, collusion or cheating a meeting between the student and the Academic Manager will lead to a decision on the penalty, based on the assessment of the available evidence and individual circumstances. Outcomes may include suspension, or exclusion from the course or any other action as determined by the Academic Manager.
